BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN HISTORY, TECHNOLOGY, AND SOCIETY

The bachelor's degree in History, Technology, and Society (BS-HTS) is comparable to traditional degrees in history and sociology, but has several attributes that make it unique and give our students an edge over other liberal arts majors. A degree in HTS requires broad-based training in humanities, mathematics, computing, science, and social sciences, giving our majors a truly rigorous and broad education. The program's focus on global issues related to the origin and impact of technology and science is also distinctive, providing students with the critical tools needed to understand the development of the modern world. Students earning a degree in HTS may participate in both the International Plan and the Research Option, which enhance the undergraduate experience. Finally, the HTS curriculum allows one of the largest numbers of free electives of any major at Georgia Tech, giving our students a chance to pursue minor degrees, certificates, and other interests that prepare them for the broadest possible range of careers, from government and politics to law and medicine to journalism and business.

Free Electives

Free Electives ⁴	18
Total Credit Hours	100

Pass/fail: Students can do pass/fail for HTS electives, non-major cluster, and free electives. However, students who complete at least 91 credit hours at Georgia Tech are limited to 6 pass/fail credit hours in HTS electives and students who complete less than 90 credit hours at Tech are limited to 3 pass/fail credit hours in HTS electives.

All courses in the HTS core must be taken for a letter grade and the student must earn a C or better.

One grade of D (three credits) is allowed in HTS electives.

- ¹ This must be a different class from that used to satisfy the Legislative Requirement.
- ² Minimum grade of C required.
- ³ 12 credits required in either the same prefix or part of a coherent theme. Please consult with advisor on course selection.
- ⁴ Free Electives and Non-Major Cluster electives can be satisfied with a minor, certificate, or other coursework. Please consult with the advisor on course selection.
- ⁵ In consultation with an advisor, students choose three HTS classes with a coherent theme that is not reflected in the other seven preapproved areas of specialization.
- ⁶ Please see an advisor for additional Math sequence options for Core IMPACTS Technology, Mathematics, and Sciences Math requirement.
- ⁷ A modern language sequence is strongly suggested for HTS majors. Classes should be taught in a language other than English.
- ⁸ HTS elective may be a 1000-,2000- or 3000-level course
- ⁹ At least one course in related to the environment and/or communities is strongly encouraged for this specialization/track.

International Plan

This degree program combines the traditional benefits of an HTS degree with the additional benefits of international education. The School of History and Sociology strongly encourages study abroad programs and believes that international experiences greatly enhance one's undergraduate education.

The number of credit hours needed for this degree (BS in History, Technology, and Society-International Plan, or BSHTS-IP) is the same as for the traditional bachelor's degree in HTS. However, the International Plan (IP) degree has different requirements. These requirements are discussed briefly in the next paragraph. In most cases, HTS majors will be able to use their non-major cluster and free-elective hours to fulfill the HTS-IP requirements.

There are two IP tracks:

- · the English Language Option and
- the Foreign Language Option.

The HTS degree supports both options, which the Institute deems to be equal in difficulty and value. Both tracks require a total of twentysix weeks in residence in a specific foreign country or region. These weeks must be accumulated in one or two trips abroad; any combination of coursework, research, internship, or work may apply to this twentysix week total, given the approval of the advisor. Both IP tracks require a minimum of twelve credit hours in one foreign language and demonstration of proficiency in that language. Both require participants to take a cluster of courses from a menu of IP-designated electives; both require completion of a capstone course, which will be offered through the HTS degree program.

Visit the School of History and Sociology website here for additional information.

For more complete information, see the official Institute IP website through Georgia Tech's Office of International Education.

Research Option

The School of History and Sociology Research Option allows students to incorporate additional research, writing, and presentation experiences into the HTS major program of study. Students interested in going on to graduate or professional school are encouraged to consider the research option, which allows a student to complete a significant scholarly work for presentation at a professional conference and/or publication.

In addition to the courses required of all HTS majors, including eight credit hours of research seminars and the three-credit HTS research methods course, students enrolled in the Research Option will also complete six hours of supervised individual undergraduate research and two 1-hour writing courses: LMC 4701 (typically taken during the first or second semester of research) and LMC 4702 (taken during the term in which the thesis is written).

Visit the School of History and Sociology website here for additional information.

BSMS Option

Admissions criteria. Students are eligible to apply for the program after completion of 45 semester credit hours at Georgia Tech, including HTS 2101, and if they show appropriate progress in their degree program thereafter. Admissions decisions will be based on GPA and letters of recommendation from faculty who have served as advisors or instructors.

GPA. Continuation in the program requires the student to maintain a GPA of 3.5 or higher in Ivan Allen classes.

Shared credit hours. Students utilizing the BSMS Option may share credit for two HTS 6000-level classes taken towards the MS degree in the place of their HTS Free Elective (upper division) and one of their HTS Specialization requirements.
